

The Indiana Telephone Privacy Act should not be altered in any way. I can now sit down with my family and enjoy dinner without being called and solicited. I also do not have the 6-8 hang-ups a day that I did receive when this law was not in effect. The hang-ups are a result of mass call machines that dial several numbers at once and taking the first one that answers, hence our having to say "hello" twice in order for them to answer. This in turn increases their productivity and our number is just put back in the cycle to be called again for another hang-up or solicitation! We have a right to privacy in this country and that is not upheld when you receive ten plus calls per day(Sunday's too)!
